Visual Tracking 1

Introduction

Visual tracking is an important skill for a student to master to become an effective reader. This type of visual training helps correct problems with left to right directionality, reversals, and omissions. The student will also learn to recognize the proper spelling of words and their usage in sentences.

The drills that are provided in this workbook strengthen the student's eye movements. In Finland, students are not taught to read until third grade because it is felt that at that age the student has strong enough eye movements to learn to read. 100% of students in Finland can read.

The words that are introduced to the student are from the MaxScholar Sight Words list of frequently used words in the English language. It is very important that these words are mastered for a student to become a strong reader.

In this workbook, the student is asked to circle the sight words found in the midst of many nonsense words. In Section 1 and Section 2, the student is asked to circle sight words found in the sentence written above the paragraph of nonsense words.

In Section 3, the sentences are found at the bottom of the page. A teacher can cover the sentences to provide an additional challenge to the student. After circling all the words that he/she thinks are sight words, the sentences can be uncovered allowing the student to check his/her work.

Section 4 has sight words within the paragraph of nonsense words. Circling all the correct words will create a complete sentence. A list of all the sentences is found in the Appendix on page 42.

Section 5 consists of sight words only (not in a sentence). A list of all the sight words grouped according to paragraphs can also be found in the Appendix on page 43.1
